BOATS CHECKED FOR SAFETY

Safety afloat is the goal of these people, checking through the details of a boat inspection. The RCMP and the Kelowna Power Squadron teamed up Saturday at the Kelowna

Yacht Club to inspect a number of boats for the proper safety equipment and efficient running gear. Here, Rod Wetzel, 14, in boat, gets the approval and safety sticker from

Israeli Forces Repulse Egyptians At Suez Canal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dozens of Egyptian troops crossed the Suez canal Sunday night but Israeli forces repulsed them, killing at least three, an Israeli Army spokesman said today.

The attack came at about the same time as Israeli commandos crossed into Jordan south of the Sea of Galilee and attacked Jordanian artillery positions. They blew up a section of the East Ghor irrigation canal which was largely financed by American money. Sources said the raid was intended to serve "as still another warning" to the Jordanian Army to "cool off" military activity.

A spokesman said the rupture of the Ghor canal was meant "to show them what we can do if they keep it up."

The Israelis said that the canal battle with the Egyptians was the biggest in many months. The Egyptian force crossed five miles south of Quantara on the northern section of the canal after a heavy artillery and mortar bombardment, spokesmen reported.

They said the Israeli troops returned the fire, engaged the commandos and pushed them back across the canal.

The Egyptians left three dead on the Israeli side. The army spokesman said one Israeli soldier was wounded.

SAY 18 KILLED

An Egyptian communiqué in Cairo today said their forces killed 18 Israelis.

The Israelis' Sunday raid in Jordan came after warplanes made three attacks in the same area.

The Israeli Army said the area was used as a sabotage base as well as an artillery emplacement. It accused the Arab inhabitants and the army of co-operating with the saboteurs.

All the Israeli commandos returned safely to base, the army said.

Jordanian authorities said one person was killed and five persons wounded in the air attacks.

The new fighting came as Cairo newspapers said high-level officials from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon were holding meetings on "important developments" expected in the near future.

'Things Rosy' In Battle Against Sugar Lake Fire

"Things are rosy" in the Vernon Ranger District—at least for the time being.

This was how ranger Verne Hopkins described the situation as his fire fighters continue to gain on the 1,750-acre Sugar Lake blaze.

The monstrous fire, one of 13 still burning in the district, was contained during the weekend and the smoke eaters are "rapidly putting it out", the ranger said today.

Tipping the scales in favor of the fire fighters was rain—0.15 inches Thursday night. "I said earlier we could do nothing to control the fire unless it rained; well, it rained."

With a respite from the heat, the ranger district is laying off men and equipment. There are 80 men and three machines still working at the height of the blaze Thursday 200 men and 10 machines were battling the fire. All of the remaining 13 fires were started by lightning during Thursday's storm, ranger Hopkins said, but the situation is "well in hand".

An estimated 5,000,000 board feet of timber were destroyed last week when the fire roared through the mountainous country. It was the worst of the 32 blazes to hit the Vernon Ranger District this year.

Meanwhile, rain storms have eased the forest fire situation throughout the province, but the fire crews are not relaxing. The temporary halt in outbreaks is being used to stamp out the existing blazes.

Forest officials, however, are anticipating one of the driest summers on record, with 250,000 acres already blackened in the province. Fire-fighting costs have passed the $1,000,000 mark.

Britain To Clamp Tougher Restrictions On Borrowing

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain has told the International Monetary Fund that it intends to clamp even tougher restrictions than now exist on public and private borrowing.

Roy Jenkins, chancellor of the exchequer, made the announcement Monday in outlining the contents of a letter of intent sent to the IMF to back a British request for a new $1,000,000,000 standby credit. It was announced in Washington Friday that Britain will get the loan.

The letter of intent says Britain will make an immediate drawing of $500,000,000 or half the standby credit.

Jenkins said in the letter that progress towards obtaining a substantial and continuing balance-of-payments surplus was not as large or as rapid as the government had wished.

To speed the realization of a surplus, the government intended to limit the growth of public and private expenditure, he said.

Traffic Kills 5 In B.C.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least six persons died accidentally in British Columbia during the weekend.

A survey from 6 p.m. PDT Friday to midnight Sunday counted at least five dead in traffic mishaps and there was one drowning.

Two West Kootenay men died following a one-car collision Sunday on the Southern Trans-Canada Highway seven miles east of Grand Forks.

Dead after their car failed to round a curve are Morey Johnston, 26, of Trail and Shane Smitten, 22, of Rossland.

Near Terrace, a car plunged into the fast-flowing Skeena River Saturday and eyewitnesses in a following vehicle said they saw two persons in the water before they were swept away.

Police at various points in the area 450 miles north of Vancouver had at least three reports of missing cars, one with perhaps seven persons in it, but were unable to confirm any of them.

RCMP planned to have a diver begin a search of the river at daybreak today. The car went straight off Highway 16, 36 miles east of Terrace, and plunged 20 feet into the river.

Michael Johnson, 15, of Vancouver, died Friday night when a car left the highway in a thunderstorm near Trail. His twin brothers, Donald and Douglas, 21, suffered minor injuries.

Emil Zemlak, 26, a non-swimmer, drowned in Lower Campbell Lake, 14 miles west of Campbell River on Vancouver Island, when he fell from a small boat that hit a deadhead in 30 to 35 feet of water.

Bertrand Wins Over Cardinal

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand was confirmed Saturday as Union Nationale party leader.

Delegates gave him a 389-vote margin over Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal during a weekend convention marked by demonstrations, bombings and charges of election-rigging.

Mr. Bertrand, interim leader since Daniel Johnson's death last fall, polled 1,327 against 938 votes for Mr. Cardinal. Twenty-two votes went to Andre Levesque, a Montreal back-bencher.

Three violent incidents marked the arrival Friday of more than 2,000 delegates from Quebec's 108 ridings—a Molotov cocktail set furniture afire in a hotel lobby, a gunpowder bomb exploded in a mailbox and two cars were set on fire.

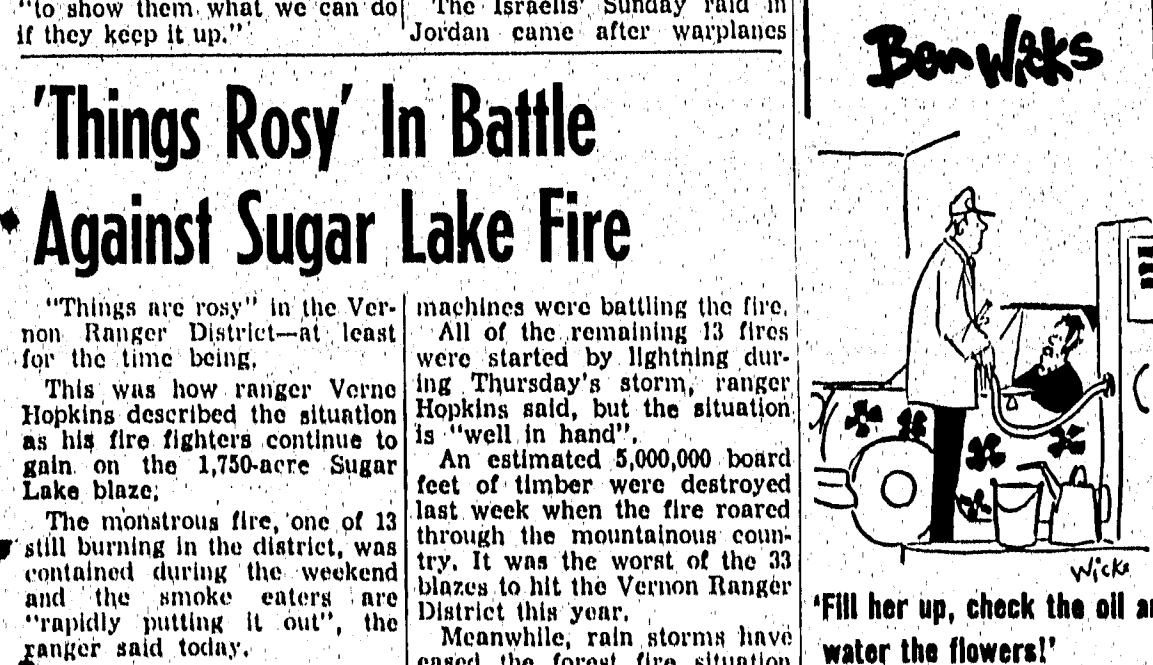

Then Saturday, a few hours before the voting, the 30,000-member Quebec Civil Service Union marched on the convention site at the Coliseum.

Military Barge Sinks; 106 Drown

LOURENCO MARQUES (AP)

Workers rescued 44 men from the crocodile-infested waters of the Zambezi River after a Portuguese military barge sank in the Portuguese African colony of Mozambique and 106 soldiers were drowned Sunday, authorities said.

Four Africans fishing from dugout canoes heard the cries of survivors struggling in the fast current and rescued 22 of them.

NO STRIKE HERE

B.C. Tel. Pickets Extend To Hope

VANCOUVER (CP) — Employees of British Columbia Telephone Co. Ltd. established picket lines at company installations from Squamish to Hope today in the first day of a planned rotation strike system. Involved are more than 6,000 members of the B.C. Federation of Telephone Workers.

Hazel Magee, head of the union's traffic division, said "well over 3,000 workers are on strike" in the 90-mile stretch from Hope to Squamish on the coast.

A spokesman for the Okanagan Telephone Company in Kelowna today would say only that no telephone workers were on strike with his company.

The first pickets appeared at 6:40 a.m. PDT at the company plant in suburban New Westminster and within 30 minutes switchboard operators in downtown Vancouver, and two other operations left their posts.

Also affected immediately was the B.C. Tel. office at Abbotsford in the Fraser Valley. The union has stated previously the strike would be a rotation affair, meaning only some employees would walk off the job at first while the remainder continued to work. Later the strikers will return to work and others will strike.

Left their switchboard operators at their places and those coming on shift refused to cross the picket lines, supervisory personnel took their places to maintain service.

Colin Patterson, a spokesman for B.C. Tel. said long distance calls were being handled relatively quickly in the first hour of the strike but, he added, "there may be some delays" as heavy business traffic begins.

He urged customers to use the direct distance dialing system for faster service. The federation demand Saturday a 32.1 per cent pay increase and a two-year package of pay, benefits and reduced hours which the company said amounts to a 43.5 per cent boost.

The company, calling the demands "absurd," stuck to its offer of a 17.5 per cent pay increase over two years, a figure proposed by a conciliation board and soundly rejected by the union.

Talks broke off Saturday shortly after the union announced a vote of 82 per cent in favor of a strike. Each side said it was willing to resume talks as long as the other changed its position.

SAID FAR APART

D. S. Tysoe, federal conciliation officer, met with both sides Sunday and said they're far apart. He told reporters "no settlement is possible" as long as union and management stick to their positions.

Trapped Miners Come Out Alive

Forces To Be Cut To 80-85,000

OTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Leo Cadieux announced Monday that Canada's armed forces will be reduced to a strength of 80,000 to 85,000 during the next three years.

Present strength is about 98,000. Mr. Cadieux told the Commons that the government will concentrate wherever possible on reducing administrative and support activities to provide a higher ratio of operational to non-operational personnel than in the past.

This entails a re-examination of command and control activities with a view to reducing the headquarters staff, including that in Ottawa.

Mr. Cadieux said it is planned to reach the new manpower levels without introducing a program of forced attrition.

"We fully recognize that this will result in some temporary personnel imbalances within certain trades and specialties, but we are confident these can be overcome by making available opportunities for retraining."

Maritime Command will continue in the anti-submarine role, using most of the existing equipment, he informed the House.

CONSIDER MORE STEPS

However, the government was considering a replacement aircraft for the sub-hunting Argus, now operating from Maritimes bases.

The possibility of widening the roles open to maritime forces was being explored "in response to the government's policy directive."

"In particular, we expect more emphasis will be placed on activities relating to Canadian sovereign interests in our adjacent waters, and the sea personnel imbalances within

Three Walk Out Of Mine With Rescuers, Unaided

NATAL, B.C. (CP) — Three tough coal miners, who told rescuers they could have lasted three weeks longer, walked into the fresh air Sunday night after being trapped for more than 80 hours in a partially-flooded mine shaft.

Rescue came just hours after officials said hope was fading rapidly.

"We knew you would get us," Donald Evans told the men who clawed their way through 68 feet of solid coal in 15 hours Sunday after tapping sounds were heard.

Donald Evans, 54, John Krall, 57, both of Natal, and Frank Kutcher, 53, of Frank, Alta., were found by rescue crews at 7:55 p.m. PDT and walked out of the mine unaided just five minutes later.

The trio told rescuers they were buffeted by rising waters in the pit but managed to stay on their feet and fight their way to dry ground in a side shaft. They said they tried five possible escape routes but were blocked by washed out timbers and collapsed tunnels.

"They were really camped in down there," said mine manager Irv Morgan. "They used sack cloth we normally use for carrying ventilation pipes in the tunnels and made beds for themselves."

He said they fixed up a roof to keep the constantly dripping water off them.

"Hell, we were holed up in there," Evans told rescuers.

"We could have lasted 21 days."

They were trapped shortly before noon Thursday when a party of 10 miners was blasting the roof of a small dome 1,700 feet from the entrance to the Balmer South mine operated by Kaiser Resources Ltd. in this southeastern British Columbia town just 15 miles from the Alberta border.

The blast tore through the roof of the shaft and into older workings that had since filled up with water. The crashing rubble and water killed three other miners. Four escaped.

Rescue workers heard faint tapping sounds at about 5:15 a.m. Sunday and they and the following shift clawed their way through in less than 15 hours.

"The men went through 68 feet of solid coal—more than a two-day job—in record time," said M. F. Clemmer, spokesman for Kaiser.

"MOST BEAUTIFUL"

He said when the three men walked from the mine it looked as if they were going to work and not coming from it.

"It was the most beautiful thing in the world."

The men were in good spirits as they left the mine.

"We knew you would come to get us," Evans said.

"Wouldn't a beer taste good," said Kutcher.

"If you're going to the Kootenay get me one," Krall said to friends as the three miners headed for the Michel-Natal Hospital for a checkup.

Men Followed The Schedule Of Tapping Every 2 Hours

About 3,000 people were gathered around the mine site when the three men walked out with their rescuers.

"They are three tough men," said Mr. Morgan.

He said the men had followed a schedule of tapping every two hours to let rescuers know they were alive.

"When we heard them we thought there was at least one alive. That three would be alive and well was beyond our wildest expectations."

Rescue workers scheduled to go off duty at 4 p.m. Sunday refused to leave and stayed on until the trapped men were freed.

"We could hear a tap... more like a thud. We'd hear it then listen... then we couldn't hear it," rescue worker Bill Milburn of Fernie, B.C., said today.

"We were never sure what it was. It was never clear that it was someone banging," he said. But it was enough to send the rescue workers to driving a 70-foot shaft through solid coal to the trapped men. The feverish last effort by the rescuers took 12 hours; drilling, blasting and removing debris.

As the last few feet were cleared away, Mr. Morgan, underground superintendent James Anderson and pit boss Arnold Webster were the first to see the trapped men. They were braced against the far wall of their prison to escape the last blast which was set off six feet from the area in which they were imprisoned.

The trapped men were not in complete darkness; their safety lamps were still functioning. They were led back through the four-foot square cross cut into the main drift.

"They looked real good. But they were a little weary all right," Mr. Milburn said.

"I talked to them... to Krall and Kutcher... they didn't say anything about food. They said the cold and the damp was the worst."

"One of them said they figured it would take until this morning for us to get to them. They could hear the shots (dynamite explosions). They could hear us coming."

Families And Townspeople Gather On Embankment

When news of the tapping reached Natal and Michel, families of the miners and other townspeople clustered north of Michel Creek on an embankment that gave a full view of the mine entrance.

A cheer rose from the crowd when the three rescued men appeared.

"The miners were taken immediately to the Michel-Natal Hospital, a half-mile east of here in Michel and were visited by their families before they were sent under sedation."

"There will be no talking to them tonight," said Mrs. I. Caruso, the administrator of the hospital. She said there was "nothing too much" wrong with them and that they seemed "in very good condition" considering the time they spent underground.

Mr. Clemmer said the main reason for their apparently good condition was their experience underground "and the fact they had a little faith in the men coming to get them."

After visiting her husband in hospital, Frank Kutcher's wife was definite about one thing.

"That's the last time my old man's going into a coal mine," she said. Interviewed at her home in Frank, she said she and the two of their four children at home with her learned before the rescue the good news about the tapping sound.

ALL IN WATER

"It was my husband tapping on a pipe... an electric pipe for the electric cords," she said.

"They were all in water, this is all I can say. He said he was up to his neck in water and they were holding on to timbers and pulling themselves up all the way."

Bruce Kutcher, 15, one of Frank Kutcher's sons, backed up his mother when she said her husband wasn't going back into the mine.

"I told him that when he came out of the mine tonight and he didn't agree," Bruce said. "But we'll stop him."

Death Of Judy Garland Not Suicide, Foul Play

"Audiences have kept me alive," Judy Garland once said. But a London surgeon says the star was "living on borrowed time," and time ran out Sunday for the 47-year-old singing star.

Miss Garland, who made more than 35 films but was best known for her role as a little girl named Dorothy in The Wizard of Oz, was found dead by her fifth husband, Mickey Deans, in the bathroom of her London home.

British newspapers labelled the death "sudden and mysterious" but Scotland Yard ruled out suicide and police said there was no suspicion of foul play. An autopsy was scheduled today.

Dr. Philip Lebon, a prominent London surgeon who had treated Miss Garland for several years, said she had cirrhosis of the liver and that death could have come any time. "How she lived this long I don't know," he said.

A Scotland Yard spokesman commented: "It was a simple plain case of sudden death."

One Drop Of Rain Useless But Anti-Inflation Men Hopeful

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

One rain drop won't put out a forest fire, but if you're an optimist you can hope enough will follow to achieve that goal.

That's the position some economists were in last week as they surveyed the long struggle to contain inflation in the Canadian economy.

They thought they may have seen the first raindrop—now they're wondering where the others are.

The thing that brought at least a vague glimmer of hope was the weekly report of the Bank of Canada, which noted that general outstanding loans were dipped by $24,000,000 from the previous week.

It's generally conceded that if Canada is to have any luck at all in controlling inflation, the demand side of the economy is going to have to be slowed.

MEANS EASING LOANS

In monetary terms, this means an easing in bank loans—both business and personal.

Whether last week's slight drop is significant won't be known until enough time has passed to see whether it is a trend.

What it does help do, paradoxically, is indicate the size of the problem the government is facing.

Even with the reduction, the total value of outstanding general loans was $14,627,000,000. That's $2,323,000,000 more than a year earlier.

There are a few special reasons for the sharp increase during the last year.

TURNTOWN TO BANKS

For example, some businesses turned to the banks to borrow money to pay the accelerated corporation taxes introduced in last October's budget.

Basically, however, it appears clear that much of the lending—by both business and individuals—has been due to what the Bank of Canada calls the inflation psychology.

Anticipating higher costs and more expensive goods in the future, people and businesses have been ready to borrow—even at record interest rates—to get what they wanted quickly.

This is the basic reason that efforts during the last 18 months to control rising costs have failed.

Those earlier efforts sought to control basically the supply side of the economy, trying to limit it so people would have fewer goods to buy and so would save more.

ADDS TO PRESSURE

Instead, demand has been so strong it has added significantly to the pressures on the supply side. As a result, Canada has seen the unusual economic situation of attempted controls actually adding to the inflationary fires.

A factor which should help ease demand is that the chartered banks do not have as much money now to lend as they did a year ago. Their ratio of liquid assets to total assets last week was less than 28 per cent, a three-year low. A year ago the ratio was nearly 33 per cent.

And the Bank of Canada has been contracting the supply of money in circulation since last April.

Countering this monetary tightness, however, has been an increase in the amount of disposable income people have because of increased wages, despite higher taxes.

SKEETCHY EVIDENCE suggests this extra money is being spent. Despite Canada's reputation as one of the highest - saving countries in the world, overall savings have shown little significant increase in recent months.

Five Dead, 30 Injured In Tornado

OLD MINES, Mo. (AP) — when a tornado lifted his car from U.S. 67 near Farmington and slammed it into a rock bluff.

"We heard this awful roar, just like a railroad train," said a neighbor of Pratt, Clyde Boyer. "It took the doors right off the storm cellar and my wife and my boy and I crouched down on the floor until it passed."

Most roads in the area were blocked by fallen trees.

Two elderly brothers, Jacob and Herman Hurst, died when another twister tore into their home near Farmington about 22 miles southeast of Old Mines.

The fifth victim, a Carbondale, Ill., motorist, was killed.

MAN, FAMILY HIJACK PLANE

MIAMI (AP) — A Spanish-speaking man holding a knife and a bottle marked "explosives" hijacked a jetliner with 89 persons aboard to Cuba. His wife and teen-aged daughter were with him.

The Newark-to-Miami Eastern Airlines DC-8 returned safely to Miami Sunday after spending several hours in Havana.

The hijacker and his family, issued tickets under the names of "Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Perez," remained in the Cuban capital.

Second Officer David Savage said a bottle labelled "Danger: Explosives" was tied to the hijacker's wrist by a string.

Stewardess Rose Mary Evans of Atlanta, Ga., said the man called to her and drew a knife.

"He couldn't speak English but he beckoned me to unlock the door," she said. "He didn't say anything."

Latin American Tour By 'Rocky' Went Off Without Any Trouble

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller returned home Sunday night after a six-day visit to Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay that he described as the "turning point" of his four-part Latin American tour for President Nixon.

The trip, the third in the series, went off quietly in comparison with the troubles of his previous journeys, although three days of anti-American demonstrations in Montevideo forced him to bypass that Uruguayan capital in favor of the beach resort of Punta Del Este.

The governor arrived back late Sunday night and went straight home, but a statement issued by his office said: "A pattern of consultation has now been established which is providing the points of view, the information and the counsel which the president was desirous of obtaining as a basis for formulation of U.S. policy in the Western Hemisphere."

During the first two trips, Rockefeller touched all the other Latin American countries on his schedule except Venezuela and Chile, which asked him to stay away because of fears of violent demonstrations, and Peru, where the government refused to receive him because of a dispute with Washington over fishing and oil rights.

Rockefeller's mission in Latin America was to discuss development aid and other measures to tighten inter-American unity.

THE WEAKER SEX?

One of the funniest football games ever was witnessed by more than 1,000 "gridiron" fans in the City Park Oval Saturday in a Kelowna Kinsmen Club spectacle that did as much for the swimming pool fund as it did for spectator rib-tickling, as depicted by scenes at right and bottom. Some of the humorous pre-game hijinx included zany antics by The Good Grief Group's (nurses and doctors) cheer-leading section, bottom, welcoming their team on the field, while "buxom" belles at extreme right, provided moral support for The Chalkboard Chicks (teachers). Taking their "mayhem" seriously, immediate right, are the "Chicks" during inter-player practice session. Their hectic homework proved ineffectual against their medical opponents, who won the comic contest 10-0, in spite of physical handicaps requiring leg casts, splints and crutches. "We're very pleased with the turnout," said Kinsmen football chairman, Eric Tasker, who isn't sure just how much money was raised by the game toward the club's $200,000 25-metre swimming pool fund. A rough estimate, he added, would be "about $1,000." All school children in the district were issued free tickets, he says, and until all sales are turned in no actual figure on money raised by the event can be ascertained. The football game was "definitely successful," Mr. Tasker emphasized. (Courier photo)

FUTURE NEEDS

Finch Forecasts OC Money Vote

A referendum will be presented throughout the Valley within the next two years by the Okanagan College council for capital to further develop buildings, sites and equipment.

College council chairman Charles Finch said today doubts in peoples' minds about the regional college concept are fast disappearing.

"With the first year now completed the results seem well above our expectations," he said.

"Across the province people are becoming more and more aware of what we are trying to do. Even the universities are recognizing the value of the nine college districts in B.C."

Mr. Finch, who has just been elected president of the Regional and District College Association of B.C., said he sees no problems in the future for the development of OC.

Trustees of School District 15 (Penticton) are studying facts and figures to determine whether a second referendum should be put to the voters locally for inclusion in the college scheme.

Next fall college classes in Kelowna will no longer be held in the secondary school. About 9,000 square feet of prefabricated classrooms will be erected on the grounds of the vocational school instead.

Classes in Vernon will continue as before at the army camp and in Salmon Arm the secondary school will be used again.

Police Keep Eyes Peeled For Peek-A-Boo Prowler

A peek-a-boo prowler is being sought in the Glenmore area. Police rushed to the Glenmore Auto Court at 12:15 a.m. today after patrons reported a man had been looking in windows. A search produced no suspects, but a description was supplied and investigation continues.

Investigation is also being carried out in a one-car accident at 4:20 a.m. Sunday that did an estimated $1,200 damage. The accident occurred when a car driven by John Laing of Kelowna failed to negotiate a curve at Pandosy and Elliot and struck a utility pole and concrete planter.

Police and the coroner attended a preliminary examination in the death of Mrs. M. E. Smith, at 341 - Saucier Ave., where Dr. F. D. Pollock pronounced she had died of natural causes.

Vandals damaged four flag poles and 18 flags late Sunday or early today at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club. Witnesses are being questioned by the RCMP.

Police also investigated complaints of a heater cord and curtains stolen from the basement of Dave Lowen's home and a minor motor vehicle accident in the 200 block Bernard Avenue, Saturday.

No details of the accident are available.

SEEN and HEARD

The Kelowna police office is becoming crowded with bicycles and the RCMP are appealing to owners to come in and claim them. The bicycles, stolen or lost, can be redeemed at the station at the corner of Doyle and Water. The latest in the police compound are a lady's red bike and a red Mustang.

Arnold Wigg, local amateur astronomer, plans to look light-years into the infinite distances of outer space—if he can ever get his eyepiece delivered 300 miles from Vancouver. Mrs. Wigg said her star-gazing husband has his cumbersome 15-foot telescope partially assembled but cannot complete the project until the pieces arrive. He has been waiting several weeks and hopes to get the instrument in action before the Apollo 11 moon landing next month.

William R. Mucklow, Kelowna, has received a Master of Science degree from the University of Oregon, in Eugene, Ore. The student took part in the school's 52nd annual commencement exercises earlier this month, one of more than 200 students to be awarded degrees.

Kelowna's Mike Bate continues to run well in the 145 cubic inch limited hydroplane wars. Bate powered his Fortune's Lady to second place overall at Alouette Lake, near Haney, during the weekend. The speedy Kelowna hydro jockey had a first and second in two heats and missed first place overall by only eight-tenths of a second. Kelowna's chard, Kryger picked up fourth overall. Bate continues to run first-in-points-in-the-Pacific Northwest regions and will enjoy a brief rest before heading back into action July 13 at Pasco, Wash.

Const. Dave Roseberry, who for four years was liaison between the Kelowna district school bus patrol and the police, is giving up the school traffic duties this year. Const. Roseberry was instrumental in establishing the Elmer The Elephant safety program in local elementary schools and lectured annually throughout the district to guidance classes and school patrol teams. He will continue regular RCMP duties in the district.

The look on the visitor's face was priceless. There he was, driving along Pandosy Street gazing in near disbelief at the car ahead, which had its trunk lid holding down a fibreglass bathtub. In the trunk, of course, was the first stage of a project which will put the fellow into the Okanagan Lake bathtub race, on the Friday afternoon of the 63rd Kelowna International Regatta, Aug. 6 to 9.

CLOUDY weather with afternoon showers is predicted for today and Tuesday in the Central Okanagan. Winds should be light. The predicted low tonight and high Tuesday is 55 and 72. The high Sunday was 71, two degrees below the Canada high of 79 at Penticton, and the low was 57. High and low temperatures a year ago this day were 79 and 50.

Concern Expressed

With the destruction by fire of the Aquatic, the city's facilities for meeting places are in critically short supply, the Central Okanagan Community Social Planning Council feels.

At a recent meeting the council discussed its role in helping the city re-build the Aquatic facilities, and looked for other meeting centres in the area. Many groups make requests through the council for meeting places.

Concern was expressed at the city's decision to turn down various requests that the old museum building, now vacant for several years, be renovated and put in use as a meeting hall.

Golden Days On Two Nights

After months of preparation, the curtain goes up tonight on the Kelowna Young Stagers production of Golden Days.

The Golden Days revue, featuring more than 100 Kelowna and district children, acting and dancing, will be staged today and Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Kelowna Community Theatre.

The production is staged under the auspices of the parks and recreation commission.

DOUBLE YOUR PLEASURE...

Some people just should not smoke: they burn themselves, poke holes in their clothing or leave live butts burning on furniture. One of these unfortunate people was spotted going through a pathetically funny routine with a cigarette in Kelowna City Park Sunday. The young man was first seen sitting on a park bench, a cigarette dangling from his lips. There was nothing unusual about this until you noticed he had another cigarette glowing in his hand. He must have placed one down and absent-mindedly lit another. Totally engrossed in a book, the smoker did not notice the mistake until he decided to take a puff of the cigarette in his hand. When he opened his mouth, the second cigarette fell into his lap, causing him to scramble around in a little dance to find the painfully alive tag. But like a true addict, he finally captured both cigarettes, carefully measured which was longest, butted the other and stuck it behind his ear.

Kelowna Lions Ready For 1970

More than 100 people attended the annual installation ceremonies of Kelowna Lions at the Capri Saturday. Bob Swirhun takes over the gavel from Don Johnson and along with new officers, was installed by John Quick, past-district governor, from Moses Lake, Wash.

Installed with Swirhun were first vice-president, Vic Weider; second vice-president, Bert Bowles; tall twister, Don Wort; lion tamer, John Johnson; secretary-treasurer, Jack Ritchie; and directors, Geoff Cottle, Peter Jones-Evans, Dave Dunn and Charles de Puyffer.

Representing the city was Mayor R. F. Parkinson, who in a short address admired the Lions for keeping up their membership.

"They are a credit to the community and should keep 'going' and not change faces," he said.

Don Johnson, in turning over the gavel to Bob Swirhun, said it has been a full year, but Lions should re-assess their roll in the community and find an even larger field.

"Our neighbors are not around the corner but around the world," he said.

He said, student exchange is a big project and we should strive to understand the work they are doing.

"They are made up of people like you and I and we should help them—it's our job," he said.

Mr. Johnson thanked his officers and said the projects they took on for the year were completed to the best of their ability.

"It was a memorable year—a year that saw accomplishments reached and a step ahead for Lionism," he said.

Installing officer John Quick in his address said friendship between Lions of Kelowna and clubs across the border is tremendous and is something Kelowna can be proud of.

KGH Routine Gets Busier

Admissions at Kelowna General Hospital continue to climb steadily, this year as construction workers near completion of the hospital addition.

A total of 523 adults and children were admitted to hospital in May, compared with 469 for the same month in 1968. So far this year there have been 2,323 admissions; the figure was 2,171 at the same time last year.

A slightly higher turnover of patients seems to be taking place this year. The average length of stay is 9.7 days, compared with 10.7 days last year.

There were 71 babies born in hospital during May; last year for May, births totalled 52. Total births so far this year are 299, compared with 222 in the same period in 1968.

In the outpatient category, hospital records show 1,489 persons treated in May, with 6,660 to date this year. The 1968 figures are 1,020 for May and 4,635 for the year.

WOODS RESTRICTED

'Red Rampage' Razes Forests

Color British Columbia forests red... the crimson scourge of fire is bleeding the woods to death, leaving charred, mile-wide corpses of blackened timber and natural resource waste. There have been 16 forest "funerals" in the Kelowna-ranger district since the fire season began May 1, with nine new blazes reported during the week ending today. The local ranger station says eight blazes were started by lightning and one by a careless smoker. Largest conflagration encompassed 12 acres four miles north east of the Black Knight Mountain lookout. Fire retardant dropped by air tankers was used on the blaze, which is now being patrolled.

Two other smaller fires requiring bombing were located one half-mile southeast of Beaver Lake, as well as the Beigo Crescen, 20 miles east of Kelowna. All fires are currently under observation and patrol, with most confined to less than a quarter-acre. The recent rain spell, says the report, has reduced the forest fire hazard to moderate.

Fires to date in the Kamloops forest district now total 455; 156 being reported during the week ending Friday. Fire-fighting cost is $417,200 this year, compared with $44,300 in 1968 for 183 fires.

The picture is much grimmer for the rest of the province, with 324 new outbreaks reported during the week ending Friday, for a total of 1,087 since the beginning of the fire season.

"If the trend continues," said W. C. Phillips, chief of the forest protection division, "the 1967 record fire year will be broken." During a corresponding period that year, 716 fires burned an estimated 10,000 acres, compared to this year, with an estimated 250,000 acres destroyed, mostly in isolated, poor timber areas.

Fire-fighting costs have taken a corresponding jump to $1,074,500 this year, compared with $89,000 for 1968, for 443 fires. Fire-fighting cost for the week ending Friday was $598,700, with 168 blazes extinguished and 313 still burning.

The fire hazard rating throughout the province ranged from high to extreme in the Prince Rupert and Kamloops areas, to high in the Vancouver district and extreme and moderate in the Prince George and Nelson regions. Suspension of campfire permits is now in effect in the province, with the exception of the west coast of Vancouver Island, Smith Inlet, the Queen Charlotte Islands, the coastal area of the Prince Rupert forest district and supervised provincial and federal parks, campsites and picnic grounds. Travel and recreation restrictions are effective east of the Rockies.

Children And Matches Don't Mix Well, Chief

Parents should "check their children" for matches, Kelowna fire chief, Charles Pettman, stated today in an official appraisal of the city's continuing rise in grass fires.

Of eight grass blazes in the past two weeks, two have been attributed to children playing with matches, said chief Pettman, and the indictment is carried further to the recent disastrous Aquatic holocaust that was a "good example" of mischievous matches. "It's pretty apparent the fire was started by children playing with matches," chief Pettman emphasized, warning the same thing could happen again. Only this time it could be someone's home, with more tragic consequences.

But carelessness with fire isn't confined only to children. Two of those eight grass fires involved incinerators which apparently got out of hand. "Fire travels so fast people just don't notice it," said chief Pettman. The recent rash of grass fires has curtailed the issuance of open fire permits by the fire department last week, with only special requests being granted until the current situation slows.

"They seem to run in batches," added chief Pettman, who identified the attraction of matches to children to summer diversion which is more prevalent when "kids get out of school."

"It's very easy for them to slip book matches in their pockets," stresses chief Pettman, "I know some who carry them all the time."

Unless they want "another Aquatic," parents should forbid the use or carrying of matches by their children and make this one of the strictest household commandments, he added.

Busy Day For Magistrate As Court Docket Gets Longer

An Ontario man requested treatment for alcoholism after pleading guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, when he appeared before magistrate D. M. White in Kelowna court today.

Lorne Mikkola, who came to B.C. six weeks ago, was arrested in connection with the breaking and entering of Thomas Motors, Friday, in which "about $40 in change" was stolen from the cash register.

Mikkola told police he and another man had kicked in the door of the shop and carried the register to the rear of the building where they forced it open. The other man fled without taking any of the money.

Magistrate White said it would be advisable to obtain Mikkola's record and receive a pre-sentence report from a probation officer before sentence was passed.

Pre-sentence reports from a probation officer and Dr. F. E. McNair are also sought for an 18-year-old girl in custody in Kelowna jail.

Linda Darlene Cramer entered a guilty plea when she appeared in court charged with uttering a false document. She was charged after passing a forged Bank of Montreal counter cheque for $42 at a local food market.

"I hope you now realize the seriousness of this charge," magistrate White said.

"We don't like to see our young people in this condition," Magistrate White also warned two other young people of conduct expected from them in imposing $35 fines for fighting in a public place.

William George Sevenko, Port Coquitlam, and Walter Barry Sigfuson, Kelowna, were apprehended at 3:15 a.m., Sunday, fighting in the 200 block Bernard.

Both pleaded guilty. In other court action Chester Roy Jones, Westbank, was fined $400 and had his licence suspended for 12-months after he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

Jones was apprehended Sunday when an RCMP patrol car observed his truck proceeding across the Okanagan Lake bridge without headlights.

Marine offences saw Garry Clinton Marshall fined $75 for operating a boat too close to a bathing area and interfering with the free use of that beach by swimmers and Bruce Lang was fined $25 for failing to have enough life preservers in his boat.

Lang said he was guilty but reminded the court that preservers are almost useless if stowed under a seat, as is common practice in the Kelowna area.

Fishing for game fish with more than one line netted a $25 fine for Enrico Tattangelo. He was apprehended on Shuswap Lake by conservation officers.

Council Shows Tendency To Be Obstructionist

It begins to appear that some members of city council are dragging their feet a little if not actually obstructing in the matter of giving some assistance to the Regatta group in staging this year's show following the disastrous fire of a week ago.

The fire gave the city an unexpected windfall of something around $300,000. It was unexpected because the fire, of course, was not anticipated, and it is a windfall because, while legally the insurance belongs to the city, it is morally doubtful if the city has a right to it. We say this because this insurance money is being received because of the destruction of building assets built up over the years not by the city but by a body of interested citizens—and over 60 years there have been thousands of them—who have contributed blood, sweat and tears with the satisfaction of a job accomplished their only reward.

We are certainly not suggesting that the whole amount should be turned over to the Regatta committee. Definitely not. This capital sum should be used as a base for the construction of a convention-aquatic centre which eventually must be built.

However, this is not an immediate project. Indeed, it would be well to take sufficient time for good planning rather than a hurried decision which could be regretted at a later date. This is going to take time.

A year at the very least, and a year's interest on $300,000 would be in the neighborhood of $20,000 to $25,000. Is there any good reason why council should not provide one year's interest to assist the Regatta committee to stage this year's show? We think not. In our opinion aldermen opposing this very reasonable suggestion which would not cost the city a plugged nickel are being very shortsighted and, indeed, obstructionist.

Let's face it. If the Regatta is not held this year, it is lost forever. If we fail to hold the Regatta this year we are throwing out the window an institution which, with fruit, has been responsible in a major degree to the building of this town. The publicity gained for this town by the Regatta could not be purchased by a thousand times the amount suggested and, in addition it has brought untold thousands of dollars to this community through retail sales, real estate sales and people who had their first view of this area because they had heard of it, or visited it, because of the Regatta.

In these days of hard realism there is precisely little room for sentiment (except in the purchase of antiques). As someone said the other day we do not want to live with the past but this generation does not want to lose touch with the past either. But there is more than six decades of sentiment wrapped up in Regatta history. No other single thing pictures the growth of this as does the Regatta; it and the Aquatic composed the focal point of life for the community for more than half a century. Yet now there are some who would callously discard this asset which has been created by the blood, sweat and tears of literally thousands, many of whom are still living here today. These people look upon the Regatta as a great example of community-mindedness and a physical demonstration of the spirit which has played a most important part in the development of this city and its area.

Perhaps there are a number of persons living here now who have no background of the development of the Aquatic, Regatta and the facilities. Sufficient to say that these were built up without city help (excepting a nominal land rental). In time an arrangement was made between the city and the Aquatic committee by which the city took over the operation, excepting the Regatta. The fire and the insurance is now placing some $300,000.00 in the city's hands—money derived from assets the city did not build. Legally it is the city's; morally it should be used to provide continuance of the Regatta and the construction of new aquatic facilities.

In our opinion aldermen opposing some assistance to this year's Regatta have not the interest of the city, the people, the merchants at heart.

Coinage, Stamps Slipping

(Victoria Times)

Although Canada is reckoned high among the prosperous nations of the world, we have fallen on evil days in two important aspects of our national services. Our new coinage is of a cheap and unsatisfactory appearance; our postage stamp issues are a hodge-podge of colorful grist for collectors' catalogues and our mail service is more inadequate and more expensive than it has ever been.

There is some thought that the government will take another look at the current style of quarters and nickels—many people have to take two glances to make sure which is which. The tiny look and the unsatisfying ring of our coins serve only to remind us that the value of our currency is rapidly depreciating through the erosion of inflation. But do we have to advertise the fact with money that looks home-made? And whatever became of the useful fifty-cent piece? Can our booming economy not afford this extravagance?

The garishness of the stamps could be overlooked if the figures on them were printed with a clarity and conviction that made them easily readable. But the mail service is another matter—and a serious one in a country which consists mainly of a continent-wide strip of population in which easy and quick communication is an essential component of our national identity. Mail is collected less frequently from corner boxes, it is delivered less quickly than before, and it costs much more than it used to.

Many a newsletter or periodical, published solely to maintain contact within some non-profit organization or professional group, has been forced to curtail or discontinue its work because of increased postage costs. A librarian's publication, and a newsletter for victims of multiple sclerosis, are cases in point.

We should rouse ourselves from this begging-bowl environment we are creating in our national services and restore them to the quality and efficiency that should prevail. Our affairs may be in desperate straits, but we shouldn't dress to look the part.

Bygone Days

10 YEARS AGO

June 1959
The new floodlights at the ball park were the only bright spots of the game for the Kelowna Labatts, as they played their first game under the new lights—and went down to a 4-1 defeat at the hands of the Summerland Macs, a team that hadn't won a game until last night. Ray Scott took the loss though he fanned 13. Winning pitcher was Sheeley with a three-hitter for the Macs first victory.

20 YEARS AGO

June 1939
The members of the United Church of Rutland, Oyania, Okanagan Centre, Winfield, Benvoulin and Ellison held an outdoor service on Sunday at "The Spot" on Wood Lake. Following the service, conducted by Rev. Stewart Crysdale, about 300 people sat down to a picnic lunch. In the afternoon Mrs. McGuire gave a report on the United Church Conference in Vancouver. Swimming and games occupied the rest of the afternoon.

EDGES UP

The consumer price index edged upward to 124.9 points in May from 124.6 in April, chiefly because of advances in the cost of housing, recreation and reading, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The index based on 1961 prices equalling 100 points — is 4.7 per cent above the figure for May, 1968. (CP Newsmag)

Toughness A Language For Motorists To Learn

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If toughness is the only language motorists understand, then Canadian drivers are likely to see more of this approach.

This was spelled out by Fernand Lizotte, Quebec's minister of transportation and communication, and a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press indicates that toughness is being applied in all provinces—and is paying off.

Mr. Lizotte said "we intend to use this method to enforce the law."

Provincial statistics show that since 1967 accidents and fatalities in most provinces have declined or, at most, are up only slightly.

Both police and highway departments, authorities credit the success to stricter penalties and new approaches to driving.

In British Columbia, where fatalities for the first three months of 1969 totalled 68 compared with 124 for the same period in 1968, motorists may well be looking at what's happening in southern Vancouver Island.

VARY POINTS SYSTEM
The Islanders have a new demerit system designed to relieve police courts of petty driving infractions. However, it seems to be doing more.

Instead of paying a fine for, say, driving through a red light, a motorist is given three points instead of a summons. After six points, he gets a warning letter.

After nine points—even though he may not have paid any fines—he is called upon to show cause why his licence should not be suspended. In several other provinces, the points system is used as a supplement to the normal fines for violations.

In Ontario, which has had the points system for some years, Transport Minister Irwin Haskett is setting up stricter penalties in addition. It appears that he wants to maintain the trend of 1968, when Ontario had 1,586 traffic fatalities, down from the previous year when the figure was a record 1,719. The new penalties include:

—Harsher fines for higher speeds.

—A minimum fine of $100 instead of the present $10 on conviction of careless driving.

—Increase in discretionary jail terms to six months from the present three months, on careless driving convictions.

—A new requirement that a driver must identify himself at the demand of a police officer.

CHANGES 'REALISTIC'

Mr. Haskett said the changes to the Highway Traffic Act "are calculated to be more realistic in the light of present-day conditions" and draw a sharper distinction between serious and minor violations.

He said penalties in the past have tended to be too mild.

The number of motor vehicle registrations rises by about four per cent nationally each year. In Ontario, the department of transport expects about 2,350,000 Ontario cars on the road this summer.

Alberta expects at least 800,000 cars this year compared with 780,000 last year. Fatalities there for 1968 totalled 400, up slightly from 395 in 1967. During the first three months of 1969 there were 66 deaths on the roads compared with 64 for the same period in 1968.

Saskatchewan has introduced stricter penalties for drinking drivers.

Impaired drivers automatically lose their licences for six months on a first conviction, and for one year on subsequent convictions.

Saskatchewan's worst year for traffic fatalities was 1967 when 292 persons lost their lives. In 1968, the figure was 268.

Manitoba, like all other Canadian provinces, has instituted safe-driving programs in both urban and rural areas.

The province has also made the wearing of helmets by motorcycle drivers compulsory, and introduced a breath-analysis test March 1.

Manitoba had a record 208 fatalities in 1966, 202 in 1967 and 199 in 1968.

Mr. Lizotte said Quebec's tough approach to traffic is paying dividends.

QUEBEC DEATHS DOWN
The minister said traffic deaths decreased in the last two months of 1968, compared with the same period in 1967, even though car registrations were up eight per cent.

"We intend to run used cars off our roads and highways if they are not in good condition. We intend to show that we value more than anything else the life and health of those travelling on our highways."

During the first two months of 1969, there were 153 fatalities in Quebec compared to 166 for the same period in 1968.

New Brunswick introduced a new compulsory car inspection April 1. Owners have 14 days to repair any necessary defects.

A fatality statistic comparison between 1968 and 1967 also shows a drop in that province. In 1967, a record 240 persons died on New Brunswick roads, compared to 231 in 1968.

This summer provincial authorities expect about 160,000 local cars on the road, about 10,000 more than last summer.

In Nova Scotia, D. J. Tully, registrar of motor vehicles, said programs implemented in previous years are producing dividends.

The province's inspection program, introduced in 1967, eliminates about 10,000 defective cars each year.

Mr. Tully said while the national level of accidents rose about 6.2 per cent in 1968 over 1967, the Nova Scotia increase was no more than 2.5 per cent.

MORE ON ROAD
He anticipated that with tourist traffic this summer, 300,000 cars would be on the road, about 50,000 more than last year.

Accident rates in Nova Scotia are tallied by the fiscal year, April 1 to March 31 of the following year. In the 1968-69 period the number killed on the roads was 254, while from April 1, 1967, to March 1, 1968, the figure was 255.

In Prince Edward Island, a record 30 people were killed in 1968. However, during the first three months of 1969 the province had reported only one death on the roads, compared with five in 1968.

Newfoundland also experienced a drop in the number of fatalities between the years 1968 and 1967. There were 82 traffic deaths in 1967, nine more than in 1968.

The province expects about 100,000 vehicles on the road this summer and will institute spot checks by teams of inspectors to determine whether cars are fit for the road.

Last year, 21,880 vehicles and trailers visited the island province, an increase of 16.7 per cent over 1967. A similar increase is expected this year.

OTTAWA REPORT

Grits Don't Care At All For West

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

The Liberal government obviously doesn't give a damn for the West. Having won less than one-quarter of the Prairies' 45 seats in the last election, and being unlikely to hold any of them, this government seems to be writing off the 2,484,000 Canadians who live there. Thus while Agriculture Minister Bud Olson from Alberta was defending the government against an attack upon its policy of "let's not bother to sell wheat," only six Liberal MPs were in the House of Commons to hear him speak—and one of those from the Prairies.

The occasion was the debate arising from the motion by New Democrat leader Tommy Douglas, "that this House condemn the government for its failure to take steps to relieve the critical cash position of farmers in Western Canada."

Their position is indeed grim; as Ottawa Report has explained before, prairie farmers have literally got no cash and their credit has just about run out.

This was vividly illustrated during the debate by Liberal MP Ross Whitcher of Bruce, Ontario, describing the recent tour of Canada by the House of Commons Agriculture Committee.

TYPICAL PRAIRIE FARM
"The first farm in Saskatchewan we went to had about 40,000 bushels of wheat left on hand," he said. "The farmer had wheat left which was 2 1/2 years old. He had not sold his crop from two years ago, nor had he sold last year's crop. He told us, and I believe truthfully, that he was absolutely up against it because he had used up all his credit and did not have any money left."

That typifies one reason why the West has become vicious in its opposition to the Liberal government. That typifies what the government has done for the West. Suppose that farmer's wheat averages No. 3 Northern, if deliverable on quota it would be worth $1.62 per bushel at the Lakehead; taking off charges for handling and freight it would be worth about $1.42 at the representative point of Scott, Saskatchewan. So there is a farmer with wheat potentially worth $37,000 on his farm; yet because the government failed to sell that wheat, he has no money and no means of getting any.

Why hasn't the wheat been sold? Mr. Whitcher explained that U.S.A., France and Russia all managed to increase their sales on world markets last year, but sales by the Canadian government agency fell from 515 million bushels two years ago to 336 million last year.

Why doesn't the government tide over farmers, by providing more cash advances against their undeliverable grain? The government says it has no money, explained Tommy Douglas; "yet there is no trouble finding money when the government wants to look after its friends, such as handing the automobile companies a gift of $80 million, $75 million of which went to the Ford Motor Company of Canada."

EFFECT OF UNSOLD WHEAT?
Since the farmers have no cash, other businesses on the Prairies are of course slipping, and badly. Retail sales in Saskatchewan are this year down by 11 per cent compared to last year, Tommy Douglas pointed out; machinery sales down 26.2 per cent and automobile sales down 8 1/2 per cent. This drop spells less employment in Ontario factories.

During that slashing attack by all Opposition parties as well as by government "supporters", we heard how Mr. Trudeau, speaking in Winnipeg during last year's election, promised that he would sell 1,300 million bushels of wheat in the next three years; but after the election Pet told farmers in Winnipeg that it was not his responsibility to sell wheat.

Look again at the Liberal attendance in the House when Agriculture Minister Olson was speaking: six Liberal MPs were there to hear him, of whom three were from Ontario and none from the Prairies. For William's Bert Badanai and Kamloops' Len Marchand were both listening attentively—not surprisingly, for I note that they are two of the most assiduous Liberals in their attendance in the House.

CANADA'S STORY

RCMP Patrol Boat Crossed Arctic Twice

By BOB BOWMAN

Search for a Northwest passage, to provide a short route from Europe to the Orient, began early in the 16th century when Sebastian Cabot (son of John Cabot) made the first effort. However the most enthusiastic supporter of the route was Dr. John Dee, a distinguished British mathematician who was consulted by a number of the early explorers including Martin Frobisher. Unfortunately Dee was such a good mathematician, and made so many startling predictions, that he was charged with necromancy and had to leave England in a hurry.

Sir John Franklin is believed to have discovered the Northwest passage before his expedition perished in 1847. He left records that were found many years later. In the meantime Capt. Robert McClure was given credit for the discovery which he made while searching for Franklin in 1850. However, McClure did not sail through the Arctic because his ship was caught in the ice and he and his men had to walk to Melville Island where they were rescued.

The first explorer to sail through the Northwest Passage was Roald Amundsen who took three years to get through from 1903 to 1906. The conquest had taken 400 years.

Perhaps the greatest achievement was that of the second ship to get through, the RCMP patrol boat St. Roch commanded by Sgt. Henry Larsen. It left Vancouver on June 23, 1940, and took two years to get to Halifax. Then the St. Roch was fitted with stronger engines, and made the return trip in 86 days, travelling by a more northerly route than the trip from west to east. The St. Roch was only 197 tons and 104 feet long, and has since been retired from service. The ship has been preserved and is on display at the Maritime Museum in Vancouver.

Since then the Royal Canadian Navy ship Labrador, has crossed the Arctic, and the U.S. submarine Nautilus travelled under the ice from the Atlantic to the Pacific in four days.

Israelis Become Resigned Now To Fact That Siege Will Go On

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Two years after the war that hurled the Arabs back from its frontiers, Israel today stands militarily powerful, economically booming—and as far as ever from permanent peace.

The exhilaration that followed the six-day conflict of June, 1967, has long since given way to bleak resignation that the country must stay indefinitely under siege.

The current mood seems to be a mixture of self-confidence, mistrust of the outside world and a sense of frustration that success somehow fails to bring the rewards that it should.

Israeli military leaders proclaim assurance that the Arabs, despite heavy replenishments of Russian arms, still have no hope of launching a successful war. They say Israeli forces, although outnumbered, are stronger than in 1967 and enjoy territorial strategic advantages that would enable them to repulse any attack.

In political circles, opinion has been with each month becoming more pessimistic about returning the territories captured from Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

The official line is that re-drafting of frontiers is a matter for a peace settlement in direct negotiations with the Arabs. But the country's leaders all ready have made clear they do not seriously contemplate handing back East Jerusalem, the Syrian Golan Heights or control over the Tiran Straits.

In all the captured territories, even in the wastes of Sinai, Israeli settlements are springing up as a sign of the possible permanence of Israeli control there.

With general elections scheduled in October, it would be difficult to find any politician eager to advocate withdrawal from the Arab lands in the absence of a peace settlement.

From Prime Minister Golda Meir down the Israeli leaders have been busily assuring the world that they will not accept any settlement devised by the Big Four powers if it is not to their liking.

All along, the Israelis have shown distaste for the Middle East talks in New York and Washington among representatives of Britain, the United States, Russia and France.

Meanwhile, the Israelis are dug in to deal with a type of conflict not previously expected to their military philosophy.

The strategy of the "cold" war is a strategy of a "hot" war. It is a strategy in which Israeli soldiers want to catch guerrillas from across the Jordan River and sit tight in shell-proof bunkers along the Suez Canal.

Christian Myth In Orbit

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian intellectual has come under sharp criticism for suggesting that Jesus Christ and his Disciples were cosmonauts from another planet and the star of Bethlehem was their spaceship.

V. Zaitsev put his controversial views forward in a series of magazine articles and public lectures in 1967 and 1968.

They have been criticized in other magazines and the government newspaper Izvestia Friday night weighed in with a sharp personal attack on him.

An article by Aleksandr Rogov accused Zaitsev of siding with "Christian atheists" in the West who were putting forward similar theories in an attempt to salvage something from the "Christian myth."

In his articles, Zaitsev put forward the theory that Jesus was a newcomer from the cosmos, the representative of a form of higher civilization on another planet and this was the reason for the worship of him on earth.

Zaitsev said it was more than possible that the star of

RUSSIANS INCENSED

Bethlehem was a spaceship which landed Jesus and the Disciples to the west or northwest of Egypt.

Rogov said that contemporary Christian atheists in the West now are saying that Jesus was not the son of God and that he died an ordinary death, but they are still maintaining that he should be worshipped because of what he did.

B.F. Goodrich launches the Radial Wide. It's built wide and low for North American cars.

New Radial GT Wide's put 41% more tread on the road. They're the safest and longest lasting tire made in Canada.

The B.F. Goodrich Radial GT Wide has more life in it. It stops, handles and corners like no other tire. The Radial GT Wide is the safest tire made in Canada. And it's the first radial made wide and low specifically for North American cars. It's the only thing to take your life for a ride on.

A new kind of construction:

The Radial is the ultimate stage of tire development. It obsoletes ordinary tires... and goes a giant step beyond the new "belted" tires. The Radial GT Wide runs circles around other tires because that's the way it's built. Instead of criss-cross cords, Radial cords run parallel to each other and a rigid belt of cords circle the tire like a hoop. Result:

6 plies under the tread, less heat build up, less distortion and more stability. New ideas in rubber are, of course, nothing new to B.F. Goodrich — we invented the tubeless tire.

Up to double your usual mileage:

Compared to standard equipment tires, the Radial can give you 10,000, 20,000 even 30,000 extra miles. Heat developed by high speed driving is a tire's greatest enemy. Because the Radial generates far less heat than old fashioned designs, it takes a lot longer to wear out. Its tread is 26% deeper than ordinary tires. It can cut tire operating costs in half. What's more, B.F. Goodrich guarantees it for life against defects and road hazards.

This is going to stop you:
The Radial GT Wide can shorten braking distances dramatically. Because you get up to 41% more tread on the road — plus a tread that can't distort or squeeze out of shape — you stop shorter and safer.

Every corner in Canada is now less of a corner:

The Radial GT Wide will show what it's made of the first corner you take. The tread stays put. There are no stiff sidewalls to lift the rubber off the road. On wet and slippery corners, the tire sticks with you. On dry roads, you'll find out why people buy sports cars.

Your life isn't all they can save:

The Radial GT Wide has an unexpected bonus. You might not expect a tire of this quality and performance to have a frugal side... yet it does. The Radial rolls easier and has less drag. You can save up to 10% on gas consumption and give your engine a little softer life.

10-day free trial:

The Radial GT Wide is now available in sizes to suit most domestic cars. And, there's our European made GT-100 with a unique tread design to suit imported cars. You can try the GT Wide today on a special 10-day free trial, at participating dealers. Drive into your B.F. Goodrich dealer's listed below. You won't drive the same car out.

Easy Divorce Prospects In Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — The prospect of easier divorce in Britain is sharpening a permissive society image already fostered by reforms of laws on stage censorship, abortion and homosexuality.

Reformers hailed their latest victory—parliamentary approval Friday of a bill which makes "irretrievable breakdown" of a marriage the sole ground for divorce—as a sure sign that British legislators are reflecting the mood of a modern Britain.

The revolutionary divorce bill, which is given a 50-50 chance of approval in the House of Lords, sweeps away the current practice of filing for divorce on grounds of adultery, cruelty and desertion.

The reformers now are pushing ahead with plans to change ancient entertainment laws banning many Sunday sports and performances and some of them have long-term hopes of eventually relaxing the country's attitude toward mercy killings and the taking of soft drugs.

Lawyers forecast a spate of divorce petitions—at least 50,000—within a few weeks of the bill becoming law as its supporters confidently expect it will.

This is unlikely to happen before January, 1971, at the earliest and may be later because of promised government legislation to ensure fair division of property in a broken marriage.

Tears Not Necessarily A Sign Of Unmanliness

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a sergeant home on leave and am now reading the Landers columns which my family has cut out and saved for me. I just this minute came across the letter from a woman whose husband spanked their three-year-old son whenever he cried because he believed tears were a sign of unmanliness.

I had the privilege of serving with a Green Beret. He was about 25, over six feet tall, handsome, rugged, and he had made dozens of parachute jumps. I saw him perform many acts of bravery which he considered part of his job. This man was generous and tender beyond description. He did favors for strangers that most people wouldn't have done for a close friend.

During the 11 months we served together I saw him cry at least five times. I never thought less of him because of it. I admired and respected him more than anyone I have ever known. The fact that he was capable of tears showed he was a warm-hearted human who responded to other humans. That Green Beret will always serve as my model of what a real man ought to be.—Sgt. J. V.

Dear Sergeant: Your choice of heroes says a great deal about you, Sir. Thanks for writing a poignant and impressive letter.

Dear Ann Landers: My frigid wife and I have been arguing for several years about a subject which you discussed in your column recently. We have decided to let you be the judge.

My wife says she is frigid on account of me. I say frigidity in women is caused not by the husband, but by the girl's mother. I might add in passing that my wife is very much like her old lady. May we have your verdict?—Rejected in Spokane.

Dear Re: I'm no judge and I don't hand down verdicts. I do have opinions however, and I also consult with wiser heads than mine. Here's your answer: Since your wife is a chip off the old glacier it is more than likely that her mother taught her to fear, hate and feel guilty about sex. But—a warm, loving, tender, mature, considerate husband can melt away the icicles and teach his wife to be a rewarding bed partner. In the words of a French philosopher: "There are no frigid women. Only clumsy, inconsiderate men."

Dear Ann Landers: My husband had some dirty pictures tattooed on his arms during a drunken spree when he served in the Merchant Marine several years ago. He is so ashamed of the pictures he refuses to be seen in public wearing a short-sleeved sport shirt.

Recently he brought home a magazine that carried this ad: "Tattoo removing in your own home. No needles. A do-it-yourself kit for $14.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back."

He wants to send away for it but I think it's a racket. Is it? Please answer. —Montgomery, Ala.

Dear Mont: It's probably a racket. Clip the ad and send it to the Better Business Bureau. And send Tattoo Boy to a dermatologist who can do the job, properly.

Dear Ann Landers: I've never written to you before, but now I must. I've become intrigued by the letters in your column from widows who are bitter because their married friends never invite them to anything. They wait and moan about the lucky gals who still have husbands and they think it is just terrible that they are unwilling to share them.

I'd like to ask the complaining widows a question. How many widows did you entertain when your husband was alive and well?—Louisville Reflections.

Dear Lou: A good question. And one which can be answered only by the widow herself. Thanks for posing it.

Mets Push Loop Leaders On Twin Win Over Cards

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
New York Mets, a 1962 baseball expansion team and once doormats of the National League, Sunday bowled over the defending league champions twice and edged closer to the lead in the Eastern Division.

Gary Gentry and Jerry Koosman combined for strong pitching efforts as the Mets posted 5-1 and 1-0 wins over St. Louis Cardinals.

The twin victory, before the league's largest crowd of the season, 55,862 at New York's Shea Stadium, advanced the Mets within 4½ games of Chicago Cubs. New York now has won 18 of its last 23 starts, including three of four against the Cardinals.

In other NL action Sunday, the Cubs used a four-run rally in the ninth inning to trip Montreal Expos 7-5. But the Expos, baseball's first major league team, bounced back to win the second game 5-4. The game was called after six innings because of darkness.

Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed Cincinnati Reds 5-0, and their second game was called because of rain. Atlanta Braves split two games with San Francisco. The Braves, who trail Los Angeles, the Western Division leaders, by a half game, won the second game 7-5 after losing the opener to the Giants 5-1. Pittsburgh Pirates blanked Philadelphia Phillies 6-0, but lost the second game 3-2, and Houston Astros downed San Diego Padres 2-0.

At New York, Gentry gave up one St. Louis run in the first inning of the opener, but settled down to hold the Cardinals scoreless until the ninth inning. Cal Koonce relieved to collect the final two outs with two Cardinals on base.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Detroit Tigers paraded nine pitchers to the mound Sunday. But Washington Senators paraded 18 runners around the bases and wound up with a 9-4, 9-5 sweep of a doubleheader. The second game was halted by rain after six innings.

In the eighth inning of the opener, six Washington runs wiped out a 4-3 Detroit lead. In the fourth inning of the nightcap, the Senators, trailing 1-0, sent 14 men to the plate and scored all nine runs.

The defending World Series champion Tigers are in third place in the American League's Eastern Division, 12 games behind Baltimore Orioles.

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland and Minnesota split a doubleheader, leaving the Athletics two percentage points ahead of the Twins in the Western Division. The Athletics won the opener 7-3 and Minnesota took the nightcap 4-3 in 13 innings.

Baltimore drubbed Cleveland Indians 6-0 after losing the first game 3-2. New York Yankees beat Boston Red Sox 5-3 in 10 innings. Chicago White Sox edged California Angels 1-0 and Seattle Pilots beat Kansas City Royals 5-1.

YANKS, SOX SPLIT
Saturday, Minnesota clubbed Oakland 14-4, California stopped Chicago 4-1, Seattle nipped Kansas City 1-0, Detroit outscored Washington 9-5, Baltimore defeated Cleveland 3-1 and New York split two games with Boston. The Red Sox winning the opener 6-5 and the Yankees recovering for a 6-3 win in the second game.

Three-Year-Old Colt Steals The Show At Woodbine Track

TORONTO (CP) — Governor-General Roland Michener was on hand with his Horse Guards to provide pageant at the 110th running of the Queen's Plate Saturday, but a 40-year-old Cuban native and a passive three-year-old colt stole the show.

Jumpin Joseph, the even-odds favorite of a record crowd of 32,806 at Woodbine race track, sped across the finish line to win North America's oldest stakes horse race.

The time on the fast track over 1¼ miles was a slow two minutes, 41.5 seconds.

Avelino Gomez, born in Cuba, rode Jumpin Joseph to become the only jockey to win four Queen's Plates. The veteran, who won the North American riding championship in 1967, won five races in as many months Saturday.

Jumpin Joseph, a relaxed three-year-old chestnut colt, is owned by Warren Beasley of Toronto and trained by Bill Bateman.

Minutes before the start of the Queen's Plate, Gomez met the Governor-General in the walking ring by the paddock. "I got to go to work," the jockey told the Queen's representative. "See you later."

Gomez kept his word.

CHARGED INTO LEAD
Jumpin Joseph was in complete command of the 14-horse field. The colt held back in fifth place for the first half-mile and edged into third heading into the final turn. Beasley's horse moved slightly out from the rail around the final turn and charged into the lead down the stretch to beat Fantaron, owned by Jean Louis Levesque of Montreal, by slightly more than two lengths.

Fire n Desire, owned by Lloyd Duffy and Joe Lima of Toronto, was third by a neck.

The other horses, in order of finish, were Jammed Red, Northern Native, Grey Whiz, Sailor Conn, Lucky Red Patch, Northern Myth, Blythe Victor, Wyn d'Amour, Wicket, Winnie, News to Me and Day Will Come.

Kelowna Hydroplane Racer Gains Second In 145 Class

HANEY, B.C. (CP) — A seven-year jinx ended Sunday for Bill Allan of Port Coquitlam, B.C., enabling him to win the 225-cubic-inch hydroplane race in the Kiwanis International regatta.

Allan, North American champion in the class for two years, managed for the first time to complete both his runs in the race in the annual regatta on Alouette Lake.

George Henley of Eatonville, Wash., current leader in the class, was second before 6,000 spectators and Bob Urban of The fastest lap for his Chevrolet-powered open-wheeler was 1:32.2 for an average speed of 98.688 miles an hour.

Tacoma was third on the driftwood-studded lake, 25 miles east of Vancouver.

Washington boats took seven of the nine events. The other Canadian winner was Ron Bestward of Vancouver in the crankerbox class. There were 51 inboard boats entered in the regatta.

Orville Hill of Lynnwood, Wash., steered the only seven-litre boat to finish and also placed second in the 150-cubic-inch class to compile the leading individual performance.

Other results:

280-1. Don Benson, Tacoma; 2. Terry Armstrong, Seattle; 3. Frank Schneider, Bothell, Wash.

206-1. Ray La Brie, Kirkland, Wash.; 2. Samuel Frank, Lynnwood, Wash. (No third).

Toronto Driver Tops At Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — Eppie Welles of Toronto, driving a Lola T142 Formula A with almost monotonous regularity at Speedway Park Sunday, won the third race in the Canadian road racing championship series.

Turning laps in the neighborhood of 1:36, Welles finished all 40 laps of the 2.57-mile circuit to take first place, $175 in prize money and nine points for the nine-race series standings.

Roughly 4,500 fans watched the 30-year-old Torontonian take the lead at the green starter's flag and hold it until the winner's checker flashed one hour, two minutes and 54.1 seconds later.

Athletes' Avalanche To Hit City

An avalanche of about 500 athletes from British Columbia, Alberta and the state of Utah, will descend on Kelowna June 28 for a two-day test of sports skill in the British Columbia Junior Track and Field qualifying championships.

Sponsored by the Okanagan Track and Field Club, the meet is to decide the provincial representative team for the Canadian Junior Championships to be held in Calgary July 26 and 27. The event is sponsored by the Kelowna Parks and Recreation Commission, and sanctioned by the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Track and Field Association.

Some billets for the incoming athletes will be required, and any help from residents in this regard would be welcome.

Merchants Win B.C. Softball

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Merchants picked up a 5-0 record in the British Columbia senior men's open softball championships and Sunday won the B.C. berth in the Canadian summer games in Halifax in August.

Merchants won the title Sunday with a come-from-behind 4-3 victory over Vancouver Johnstons in the final of the double knockout contest. They defeated Johnstons 5-0 in a semi-final earlier.

Johnstons, despite that loss in the winners' bracket semi-final of the 10-team affair, went on to drop Vancouver Molsons 5-3 in the losers' semi-final in the third day of play.

Merchants broke a 3-3 tie in the bottom of the seventh when Bob Carriek tripled to the centre field fence and came home when Johnstons' second baseman Gary Carrelli bobbled a grounder.

Majestic Prince Out For Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Majestic Prince, who faltered in his quest of horse racing's Triple Crown, probably won't compete again until 1970, his trainer says.

The reason, inflammation of both front ankles.

"I knew something was bothering him," Johnny Longden told reporters Sunday.

The three-year-old Kentucky Derby winner had scored a narrow victory in the Preakness, then lost the Belmont Stakes. Longden hadn't wanted him to go in the Belmont but was overruled by the owner, Frank McMahon of Calgary and Vancouver.

The ankle trouble isn't serious, Longden said, "but enough to keep him out of action quite awhile."

Racing observers expected something unusual when officials at Hollywood Park quietly dropped attempts last week to put together a $100,000 race for the end of the season including the Prince.

Longden scrapped plans for the colt to race this fall, including a fourth match with Arts and Letters, in Chicago.

Majestic Prince nipped Arts and Letters in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, but lost to him by five lengths in the Belmont, the final Triple Crown race.

Rookies Are Taught Lesson At Billy Foster Speedway

By RON ALLERTON

One week ago the question at the Billy Foster Memorial Speedway was: Can anyone beat John Fisher?

The rookie early-late driver had won everything in the early-late class for three consecutive weeks, 12 races in a row.

Veteran Bruce Halquist came up with the answer this weekend, as rookies were taught lessons by veterans in two of the three classes.

Halquist not only beat Fisher, he shut him out, winning five events and joining Drew Kitch and Lyle Hickson as the only drivers ever to win five races on a single day at the quarter-mile track.

Five drivers dominated the action, as 21 stockers put their cars through 190 laps in 13 races, before a good crowd of about 800 paid.

TRIALS EXCITING

As usual, the time trials provided almost as much excitement as the races themselves. Rookie Gerald Humphries had bad handling problems, hitting the north corner steel wall on his first lap and crashing into a hydro pole his second time around, putting the car out of action for the night.

And Greg McClelland, in action for only the second week with his super-fast modified stock, smashed the class record again. Two weeks ago Earl Stein had a fairly safe 19.4, but last week McClelland cut that to 19.1 and Saturday knocked off another tenth of a second, with a 19 flat.

Prior to the start of racing, members of the Okanagan Track Racing Association and fans observed one minute's silence for Adolph Roth who died Monday. Mr. Roth did much for the club and the track and his death takes an active motorsport enthusiast from the racing scene.

Fisher was fastest through the early-late time trials, but Halquist powered out of the number two starting slot to hand the rookie his first loss in 13 races. Fisher was a close second, with fast-rising rookie Jack Davy third.

McClelland won the modified stock dash easily, showing the way to the line for Heinz Boesel, who nipped Stein by inches. Less than five lengths separated Kitch, Pete Smirl and Ab Funk at the finish of the B modified stock taking his first of three checkered flags from starter Ralph Foster.

Three stockers had a shot at the lead in the early-late first heat, before Halquist came on five laps from the finish, to lead Davy and Fisher home.

10 FOR KITSCH

Kitch led through the last two thirds of the B modified first heat and crossed the line half a dozen lengths ahead of Funk, to become the second driver to win 10 races this season. Smirl, currently leading in the B modified points competition, was third.

Experience paid off for Boesel in the modified stock first heat, as he used a fine driving display to hold off McClelland, Borrett, who was flying when he didn't have handling problems, was third.

Fisher and Halquist hooked up in another exciting duel in the early-late second heat. Halquist led for only one lap, but that was the last one, giving him the win over Fisher and Davy. Fisher made only one mistake, going a bit wide in the third last corner, but that was all Halquist needed.

The modified stock second heat was almost a re-run of the first heat, with Boesel again driving the corners extremely well, to hold off McClelland, Borrett, the leader through the first half of the race, finished third.

Smirl led from wire to wire in the B modified second heat, while Kitch (second) and Funk (third) waged a tight battle for the runner-up spots.

Halquist, starting last, was first by the second lap of the 20-lap early-late main and he won going away from Davy and Harold Enevoldson, who continues to have handling problems.

McClelland finally got tired of following Boesel and charged into the lead in the fourth lap of the modified stock main. He built a big winning margin, finishing far ahead of Stein and Borrett.

Kitch, Funk and Smirl hooked up in another of their running wars in the B modified main, but Kitch this time got the early jump and led through all 20 laps. Funk was running close to the leaders when he bent a rod and pulled out. Smirl came home second, with Kamloops' Dale Desabrais third.

Larry Flynn, currently building a new early-late, waited until the last race of the night to give the fans a big thrill and officially "retire" his car. With no one near him, Flynn lost everything going into the north corner in the fourth lap and rolled over four times. He became the second member of the 1969 roll-over club and could probably ask for four membership shares after his wild ride.

His car stopped on its right side, but the excitement wasn't over. Flynn was unhurt, but had been torn out of his safety harness and four other cars were steaming toward him. "I heard the sound of tires screaming and held on," said Flynn later. The tire noise came from Halquist and Fisher, who spun in their vehicles, but still slid into the turn, who again was unhurt, but happy to get out.

After a single-file re-start Halquist took over in the eighth lap to grab his share of track history with his fifth win of the night. Fisher was second and Enevoldson third in the night's "Flynn feature" event.

Racing continues Saturday night, with time trials at 7:30 p.m. and the first of more than a dozen races at 8 p.m.

Labs Lose Two To Vancouver

By AL SIMPSON

Vancouver displayed its baseball dominance over the Okanagan on the weekend, not only on the coast, but also in the friendly confines of Elks' Stadium.

Taking the cue from local rival Vancouver Vistas, who knocked off the Okanagan All-Stars in Victoria to advance to the Canadian championships in Halifax later this summer, Vancouver's Longshoremen handed a depleted Kelowna Labatt crew a double setback in a pair of exhibition games blanking the Labs 5-0 Saturday and following with a 6-3 triumph Sunday.

Longshoremen's lefthander, Larry Webster, stymied Kelowna bats on four hits in the opener Saturday. The former Okanagan Mainline Baseball League hurler made his outing all the more impressive setting down 15 Lab hitters via the strikeout route. No Kelowna baserunner reached as far as third base.

Webster was given more than enough support before he had delivered his first pitch. Longshoremen hopped on Kelowna starter Don Rogelstad for three quick runs in their first turn at the plate. Three successive singles and a pair of costly Kelowna errors turned the trick.

Sunday, Kelowna fell behind 3-0 and 5-0 after three and five innings, respectively, before finally denting home plate with three runs of their own, in the home half of the fifth. However, the single inning outburst represented Kelowna's total offensive output for the two-game series, though the lineup was without the services of 1968 triple-crown winner Gerry Robertson and import third baseman Bob Schwabb, both in Victoria. Pitcher Ken Tweed was the third member from Kelowna with the all-stars in the island city.

The first of four Vancouver pitchers, Bill Bazzelic, was credited with the windup game win besting Kelowna's Bob Tanner and Herm Johnson.

BRIEFS

FISH KILLED SURREY (CP)—The British Columbia Wildlife Federation is attempting to determine what killed large numbers of fish found dead Saturday in the Nicomekl River in this Vancou-ver suburb. Samples of water and some of the fish were taken for laboratory analysis.

PLAN STANDS VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Sunday the provincial government will go ahead as planned with a major building on a block it owns in downtown Vancouver. Mayor Tom Campbell had sug-gested a land swap so the city could put a civic square on the block instead.

DIES OF BURNS VANCOUVER (CP)— Theo-dore Collins, 53, a maintenance worker, died in hospital Satur-day of burns suffered while he attempted to extinguish a fire at his home March 27. His clothing caught fire, burning his chest, arms, hands and legs.

FEW TURN OUT NORTH COWICHAN (CP)— Total of 3,619 of the 3,758 elig-ible voters didn't turn out Sat-urday to elect a school trustee. The 139 who did picked David Roy Hayward, a pulp mill employment superintendent. He drew 78 by-election votes to 61 for Frederick Zantvoort, a stockbroker.

OFF BEAM MINEHEAD, England (CP)—TV viewers have to check the tide tables when they want to watch their favorite shows here—because every high tide, one of the three networks goes off the air. The BBC's second chan-nel operates on ultra-high fre-quencies and a freak effect turns the sea into a reflector which bounces the signals away for two hours each high tide.

WHISKERED WEAPON HIGHCLIFFEE, England (CP)—The army has ap-pointed a cat to guard a vital link in its satellite communica-tions network here. Recently a family of mice gnawed through a cable and put part of the Hampshire base out of action.

AP NEWS SPOTLIGHT

Soviet Builds New Face For Asian Lands People

The Associated Press spotlight this week reports on the Soviet's new-found image in Asia as champions of peace and examines Rus-sian attitudes at home to-wards sex and pop music.

NEW DELHI (AP)—The So-viets are kindling a new Tash-ent spirit in this part of the world, urging its quarrelsome inhabitants to settle their differ-ences and put up a united front to China.

In less than a month Soviet Prime Minister, Alexei Kosygin has visited India, Pakistan and Afghanistan. In addition, Kosygin has invited Ceylon's conser-vative prime minister, Dudley Senanayake, to Moscow later this year.

The Soviet initiative for peace in the subcontinent dates back to the Tashkent agreement which Kosygin hammered out between India and Pakistan in January 1966, pledging them to settle their differences by peaceful means.

As a corollary of the appeal to unity which Kosygin has been promoting, the Soviet Union is showing it favors stable govern-ments friendly to Russia over stirring up local Communists against even conservative gov-ernments.

SUPPORT REUNION In India, the Russians have been actively supporting a reu-nion of the politically weak pro-Moscow communist party and the strong, internationally-unal-igned Marxist Communists. The reason: the emergence of a third Communist party' dedi-cated to Maoist rebellion.

In addition, India's pro-Mos-cow Communists have been in-structed to avoid embarrassing Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, who often lends the Russians a friendly ear.

A fascinating wrinkle in this emerging Russian design for South Asia was a suggestion at the Moscow meeting of Commu-nist parties by Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev that there should be some form of collective security for the re-gion.

Of the Soviet role, Izvestia said, "by promoting relations of friendship, equality and mutual assistance with countries up-holding their national independ-ence, the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries will contrib-ute to every effort helping to in-sure, despite anti-popular de-signs of bellicose reaction, firm-er, dependable peace and secu-rity in Asia."

Less enthusiastic commenta-tors have noted that, with the British pulling out of Asia, the Russians might try to employ their new-found image as cham-pions of peace to pick up a few military bases.

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet soci-ety upholds traditional chastity but it does not really explain why. Sex outside marriage is generally condemned, and per-haps practiced less than in the West. But atheistic communism has come up with little to take the place of the Judaeo-Chris-tian basis for morals.

The attitude favoring chastity is a holdover from pre-revolu-tionary Russia. The new system clings to it as part of a general conservatism in social matters, although Marxism-Leninism provides no doctrinal justifica-tion for this.

Young people are warned that premarital sex is bad for their health, or will lead them into a life of crime, or will make them unhappy.

Many young people are con-fused and unhappy.

Their questions about sex don't get answered at home. The subject is considered too delicate. Schools offer no sex education.

Don't, society says. And don't ask why not, it adds, in effect.

The Young Communist League newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda reported it is flood-ed with letters from young peo-ple who do not know where else to turn for advice on sex. The paper enlisted the help of Lev Kassil, a highly respected au-thor, to say something authori-tative.

WAIT FOR REAL LOVE Kassil warned the younger gen-eration not to be taken in by talk that virginity is old-fash-ioned. He exhorted teen-agers and young men and women to wait for real and lasting love.

The magazine Zdorovye-Health—in a rare article on sex life, told teen-agers that inter-course "impairs the forces neces-sary for the development of the organism."

Western influence often gets blamed for encouraging loose morals. This helps justify the ban on most non-communist films, popular tunes and dances.

The cars and motels which have helped promote the sexual revolution in North America are missing here. Family apart-ments are crowded, with at least one older relative usually about. The Pill is practically unknown, and other means of contraception are either often hard to get or faulty.

MOSCOW (AP)—The long-haired youths and girls in min-skirts who crowd a new Moscow record shop are ignoring the counters that offer the records officials would prefer them to buy—militant Communist marching songs and patriotic folk music.

Instead, they crowd around three counters selling pop re-cords, many of them with a loud, fast beat.

The current two top-selling discs at this store are We Don't Care, a Russian ditty with a Western-type jazz accompani-ment, and Delilah, sung by Brit-ain's Tom Jones.

A. Sveshnikov, rector of Mos-cow's Tchaikovsky State Con-servatory, is typical of Commu-nist officials who worry about the popularity of such music with young people.

Western-type pop music "does not educate a profound attitude to life, courage and morality," he wrote recently in a Commu-nist party newspaper. "We must not try to outdo the West in inmate 'whisperings' and howl-ings into the microphone."

SINGERS BARRED Some of the most popular Soviet singers deviate so far from officially-approved styles that they are barred from mak-ing records, and their music has gone underground on tape re-corders.

In addition to tapes of Soviet singers, many young people make tapes of Western records brought back by travellers.

Transistor radios are as popu-lar as in the West, but here many of them are short-wave sets for picking up music from BBC and Voice of America. Jamming, which resumed after the invasion of Czechoslovakia, does not block English-language broadcasts. Even some Rus-sian-language programs get through.

Communist-officials long op-posed Western music such as jazz, but finally made some concessions to its popularity by permitting it under certain con-ditions.

One condition is that compos-ers draw heavily on traditional Russian folk music, and this has led to such compromises as a blaring, jazzy version of The Volga Boatmen.

In another concession to popu-lar tastes, the state-owned rec-ord firm Melodiya has begun re-leasing mixed collections of Soviet and Western songs in a se-ries of long-playing records called Kaleidoscope.

Recent LPs in the fast-selling $2 series have thrown together such diverse singers as Glen Campbell, Bing Crosby, Ella Fitzgerald, Pat Boone and the Beatles. The latest one includes Doris Day's old recording of Teacher's Pet.

Parliament Could Be Hazard If All Tabling Were Done . . .

OTTAWA (CP) — If the government was to table all the papers being requested these days, Parliament could become a fire hazard.

But it's not likely to happen. Instead, the Commons daily order paper simply becomes fatter and fatter.

Any MP can request the government to produce certain papers—usually relating to particular transactions, legislation or studies. And in this current session, members of the New Democratic Party have been making these requests in unprecedented numbers.

At the moment there are 54 motions calling for the production of papers. And 46 of these are sponsored by NDP members.

In addition, there are 33 that have already been called and "transferred for debate" and of these 27 came from the NDP.

The "transferred-for-debate" designation is something that came in this year with the revision of the parliamentary rules but so far there has been little debate on the motions. And the backlog gets bigger by the day.

Under the old rules, if an MP asked for certain papers, and the government didn't want to

Eritreans Hopeful

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Eight thousand Eritrean guerrillas, who have defied the Ethiopian army for nearly seven years, believe the tide of battle may soon turn in their favor.

Leaders of the Eritrean Liberation Front, which has its headquarters in Damascus, say two shiploads of Chinese arms have bolstered their outnumbered and outgunned rebels. They also say they hope for stepped-up support from the new leftist regime in neighboring Sudan.

Financed by oil-rich Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, the ELF is fighting for independence of Eritrea, the former Italian colony that became part of Haile Selassie's Ethiopian empire after the Second World War.

Two commando raids on Ethiopian airliners in Frankfurt and Karachi recently focused attention on the little-reported war that rebel leaders claim has taken more than 17,000 lives.

ELF Secretary-General Osman Sabi said "scores of Eritrean villages have been burned and bombed by the Ethiopian army and air force," which are trained, equipped and advised by the United States.

Sabi admits he has no illusions of defeating the Ethiopian forces, but he hopes to keep fighting "until the death of Haile Selassie, when we can anticipate Ethiopia will probably fall apart." Selassie is 77.

Hordes Of Crabs Invade Salmanaca

BARRANQUILLA (AP) — An invasion of thousands of crabs has forced authorities of the small Colombian island of Salmanaca to take emergency measures. Estimates were that at least 50,000 crabs made up the silent invasion which, among other things, threatened wildlife in an animal park on the island.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Most mistakes occur in situations where a player has a virtually automatic bid or play to make, which, due to some strange convolution of thought, he fails to make.

Here is an example from the match between Thailand and Venezuela during the 1987 world championship. It was Board No. 1 of the 96-board ordeal, and at the first table Venezuela's West player opened third hand with a diamond.

North doubled, of course, and South responded one heart. The

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Planetary aspects now call for conservatism on all fronts. Be careful in spending and be especially tactful in family and social circles. In leisure hours, you will probably find more enjoyment in cultural and intellectual pursuits than in hectic social activities.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your chart indicates several extremely propitious cycles for advancement toward cherished goals within the next year. In fact, on Aug. 13 you will enter an excellent period—which will last until Nov. 1—during which you will have many opportunities to step up both your job and financial status. Next good periods along these lines: Early January, the last two weeks in February, the latter half of March and the entire month of May. Do avoid extravagance during late September and throughout October, however, also during the last two weeks of December of this year and the first two weeks of next April. Even though your prospects for gain are good during all of these periods, you could also face some increased expenses, so you may have to retrench a bit.

Your private interests will also be star-blessed during the forthcoming year, with special emphasis on romance throughout October, next April and June; on travel and unusually stimulating social activities, also in October, in January, April and May. If you are careful to avoid friction in close circles in mid-October and mid-January, you should experience unusual harmony in your domestic life. A possible change in your home environment before Nov. 1 could be the cause of some anxiety, but do not let your dismay on others. Actually, if such a change is necessary, it will prove to be for the better.

A child born on this day will be endowed with lofty ambitions, a keen sense of values and fine musical ability.

Stocks Skid Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market skidded for the fifth straight week as it tumbled to a new low for the year last week with continuing concern over the tightening money situation which is reported to be largely responsible for the sharp decline.

"The basic motivating factor continues to be tight money," Larry Wachtel, a Bache and Co. vice president, said.

"Administration officials continue to indicate they will not relent in their tight-money policy until they see some significant signs of a slowdown in the overheated economy."

A feeble attempt to advance early in the Friday session flickered out as trading progressed. Analysts attributed the advance to bargain hunting as well as to President Nixon's remarks on Vietnam. The President had said he held out hopes for a massive troop withdrawal from Vietnam by the end of 1970.

"But this is pretty much staying power because tight money is here and now."

DOW HITS LOW

For the week, the Dow Jones Industrial average, which has been falling steadily from its 1969 high of 968.85 reached May 14, lost 18.68 points, compared with a loss of 29.93 points the previous week. Its close Friday at 876.16 was a new low for the year and the lowest since last Aug. 9, when it closed at 869.65. The previous 1969 low was set Thursday when the Dow Industrial closed at 882.37.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed the week off 6.5 at 312.1—a new low for the year—compared with a loss of 11.0 the week before.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index dipped 1.98 to 96.67, compared with a 3.47 loss the previous week, and the New York Stock Exchange index of 1,200 common stocks dipped 1.35 to 53.65, compared with a 2.09 loss the previous week.

Volume for the week on the Big Board totaled 56,434,000 shares, compared with 59,852,970 the previous week.

MOST DECLINE

Of 1,735 issues traded on the New York Exchange, 279 advanced, 1,344 declined, and 110 were unchanged, compared with 160 advances, 1,501 declines, and 73 unchanged the previous week. New highs for the year totalled 11 and new lows 790, compared with 18 new high and 721 new lows the previous week.

Natoma was the most active stock of the week on the Big Board, off 22½ at 95½. Brokers said the issue had advanced sharply earlier this year and now was being hard hit by profit-taking.

The five most-active issues on the American Stock Exchange were:

Asamera Oil, off 9¼ at 29¾; British Petroleum, off 1 at 18; Canadian Homestead Oils, off 2½ at 19½; Austral Oil, off 9¼ at 31¼; and Home Oil Class A, off 6¼ at 62¾.

Interest Rate To Stay High

NEW YORK (AP) — Record high interest rates seem likely to be a fact of American life for a considerable time to come.

They have reached current levels as the result of government efforts to stem inflation by curtailing the supply of lendable money. This, it was hoped, would discourage spending for new plants and equipment and major consumer goods.

The bank prime rate—the interest charged the biggest and most creditworthy borrowers—has soared to 8½ per cent in the United States in a series of jumps since last December. The Federal Reserve Board discount rate—the interest charged on loans to member banks—has risen to 6 per cent.

Some economists say they detect the beginning of a slowing of the economy, but as yet the restrictive measures have not produced substantial results.

Thomas A. Wange, a vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, said this week that the Federal Reserve would not relax its anti-inflation drive even though there are losses in the financial markets.

SOME WILL SUFFER

He told the New York Society of Security Analysts that doubters are in for a "particularly painful" experience.

"Already some participants in the financial markets are bleeding, and there will be more," he added.

The Nixon administration's top economist, Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said this week that he considers the Federal Reserve's monetary policy to be correct.
